Making Moves Dance Festival
Shifts Fully Online for 2020
Friday, Sept. 25 and Saturday, Sept. 26, 2020

July 13th, 2020 (New York) -- For the past 10 years, Making Moves Dance Festival, presented by the Jamaica Center for Arts and Learning (JCAL), has served as a platform to promote new, emerging and underrepresented dance companies. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, JCAL will present the 11th annual festival as a virtual experience. Each dance company will deliver its performance, on Friday, Sept. 25 and Saturday, Sept. 26, 2020, on JCAL’s digital platforms.

The opportunity will be challenging yet exciting for the choreographers and dancers as they’re switchin’ it up from live to virtual. Hence the title of this year’s festival: Switchin’ It Up!

JCAL’s Making Moves Dance Festival 2020 will feature 11 New York City-based professional choreographers, from new and early-career artists to emerging and underrepresented talents. The festival has always been a testament to the rich diversity of Queens and New York City, and this year’s lineup offers both traditional and contemporary influenced dance styles including Ballet, Afro-Latin, East Asian, Middle Eastern, Afro-Caribbean, East Indian, and more.
Making Moves Dance Festival 2020 highlight’s this year’s Major Commission: Rohan Bhargava and the Rovaco Dance Company. Bhargava’s artistic vision for the commission will focus on giving audiences a glimpse into contemporary Indian narratives through an array of movement, music and immersive theatrical elements.

"We’re thrilled to present the Making Moves Dance Festival for an 11th year," said Courtney Ffrench, JCAL’s Interim Artistic Director. "And we’re pleased to offer a virtual festival this year -- showing our community that while the pandemic may prevent us from gathering in spaces as in previous years, we at JCAL can harness the technology to bring these amazing dance companies to Queens and beyond."

Added Leonard Jacobs, JCAL’s Interim Executive Director, “We’re grateful to our funders and supporters for standing with us as we transform an in-person, theater-based gathering into something universally accessible -- even in the time of COVID. Artists lead and heal the world, and we present this year’s festival in the spirit of hope, change and much-needed celebration.”
